Such arrangements may include departure of all team members from a common point within Australia, or within one flight sector from Australia, and travel together via a single airline carrier or travel agent; the only exceptions to such arrangements shall be where a team member is a long term resident outside Australia or where, on the ruling of P.A., there is deemed to be an exceptional and major financial detriment to the individual if such arrangements are followed eg. the lifter is an employee of another airline or agency and would otherwise be entitled to a heavily discounted airfare.
